Native Plant Society of Oregon

The Native Plant Society of Oregon is an organization of lay and professional botanists interested in Oregon flora. The work of the Society includes preservation of native flora and the botanical education of Society members and the public. The Society accomplishes the former goal by taking an active role in monitoring programs, by active participation in plant conservation issues, by helping establish botanical preserves and by protecting significant plant populations. We meet our educational goals through our local chapter meetings, field trips, and publications. The Society awards the Jean M. Davis Memorial Scholarship to students studying Oregon flora and awards several modest research grants yearly. Membership includes participation in local chapter meetings, field trips, and subscriptions to the BULLETIN and KALMIOPSIS (also available separately at $5.00 per issue). The monthly BULLETIN includes notices of chapter meetings and activities, conservation issues and short articles of interest to the membership. KALMIOPSIS features longer articles of interest to lay and professional members of the Society.

Volunteers do the work of the Society. Money is raised by membership dues, and sale of posters, notecards, and tee shirts. Additional donations, bequests, and memorial gifts greatly help the Society in its efforts.

NOTICE TO CONTRIBUTORS

The Society invites members and others to submit articles, book reviews, botanical artwork and photographs for publication in KALMIOPSIS. Acceptance will be based on suitability. (Articles dealing with formal nomenclatural proposals or of a highly technical nature are NOT acceptable.)

Two double-spaced typewritten or near letter-quality manuscript copies (plus an IBM compatible disc in WordPerfect or an ASCII file, if possible) should be submitted to the editor well before the October 30 deadline for a late winter publication date. Include name, address, phone number, and a biographical line for the About The Authors section. We prefer 8x10 B&W photographs. Design artwork and photographs to meet the KALMIOPSIS format. Submit original artwork or first-generation photographs (no copies or halftones). Plan continuous tone and line artwork for 1/3 to 1/2 reduction in the text. Use the name and year system for literature cited. Keep footnotes to a minimum.
